KILLED THEIR OWN FAMILIES.

TO SAVE THEM FROM THE BOXERS.

The Pekin Massacre Confirmed Through Russian Source—Imperial Edict and Chinese Minister in London Say All Ministers in Pekin, Save the German, Are Alive—Ultimatum From the Viceroys—Incendiary Placards in Canton.

By Wire to the Telegram.

London, July 28.--A correspondent, cabling from Shanghai today, says the managers of a Russian bank there have received a letter from their agent at Chwang stating that a Chinese representative had just arrived from Pekin and confirmed the story of the massacre at that place. It is said that Sir Robert Hart was in despair, and knowing what might be expected if he were captured, committed suicide. As the Chinese swarmed around the embassies the foreigners killed their families to save them from falling into the hands of the Boxers.

A dispatch from Hong Kong says Canton has been placarded with appeals to the people to rise and slaughter the Chinese officers and the foreigners. Considerable pillaging has been going on in Shamlon. Otherwise the suburbs of the city are quiet.

In an interview with the Secretary of the Chinese embassy this morning it was declared that the Chinese minister to Great Britian was in receipt of direct information from Pekin to the effect that the ministers would be escorted to Tien-Tsin. The secretary said the minister was absolutely certain of the safety of the foreign represenatives in the Chinese capital.

The Daily Telegraph this morning received a dispatch from its correspondent at Shanghai saying he was convinced, from the most trustworthy information, that with the exception of the German minister, all the foreign ministers in Pekin were still alive. A number of European survivors are leaving the city.

AN OFFICIAL BULLETIN.

Washington, July 28—The Department of State today posted an official bulletin which stated in effect that the Chinese minister called at the department this morning and communicated a copy of an imperial edict, under date of July 24th, received by him from Director General Sheng through the Chinese minister in London.

The edict states that fortunately all ministers except the German are alive and unharmed, and that they are now being supplied by the government with vegetables fruit and provisions.

AN ULTIMATUM BY THE VICEROYS.

Shanghai, July 28.—War, or the protection of the Empress Dowager and the unity of the empire, is the ultimatum presented to the powers by the viceroys of the Yangste provinces. The ultimatum of the viceroys is to the effect that there shall be no partitioning of China and that the person of the Empress Dowager shall be held sacred.

Until now the viceroys of this province have professed friendship for the foreigners.

BAD NEWS CONFIRMED.

New York, July 28.—The Presbyterian Board of Missions today received a cablegram from Shanghai confirm the reported massacre of the missionaries at Partiufi.

Boer Leader Offers to Surrender.

By Wire to the Telegram.

London, July 28. — A Capetown special says it is reported that Dewett, a Boer leader, has offered to surrender on the condition that bis followers be allowed to return home unmolested. Gen. Roberts declined this proposition and refused to entertain anything except an unconditional surrender.

Funeral of Mr. Cates.

Funeral services over the remains of Mr. John W. Cates were held at his late residence on Mebane street this morning at 10 o'clock being conducted by Rev. Ligingston Johnson. A number of friends were present, including the city officials and delegations from the Knights of Pythias and the Odd Fellows. Members of these orders acted as pall-bearers.

The remains were interred in Greene Hill cemetery.

Public Building Site Valued.

It appears that the litigation over the public building site in Winston is near at an end. The commission appointed to appraise the Alspaugh property has filed a report in the office of the clerk of the Federal Court placing the valuation at $5,000, which is regarded as a very good price.

FIREMEN'S HEADQUARTERS.

The Fire Committee Authorized to Secure Plans and Bids—Additions to the Public School Buildings.

The Board of Aldermen met in regular session last night at 8 o'clock, all the members being present except Mr. Ellington, who was confined to his home by sickness.

Mr. D. W. Corl appeared before the board in regard to the drain pipe in front of his residence, on North Davie street, which is too small to properly carrry off the water. The matter was referred to the street committee and city attorney.

The Board of Education submitted plans for additions and improvements to some of the public school buildings. No action will be taken in the matter until the School Committee investigates and reports.

The Waterworks Committee filed a report on a proposed watershed, including the engineer's drawings.

The Sewerage Committee reported that the Gaston street sewer (the new jail sewer) had been completed.

A petition from a number of citizens was filed regarding the overflow of water on Davie street. The matter was referred to the Street Committee.

Mr. A. J. Dunn filed an application for a license to do sewerage work. The license was ordered granted when a bond should be filed.

The wateworks bond ordinance passed its final reading.

Alderman Joyner offered a resolution authorizing and instructing the Fire Committee to secure detailed plans and bids for the erection of a building to be used as firemen's headquarters. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

The Police Committee was requested to prepare suitable resolutions concerning the death of Mr. John W. Cates, a member of the police force.

The board adjouned to meet Monday night, August 6th.

A STORY FROM A SALOON.

The Special Variety of Hospitality That Formerly Existed in Greensboro Saloons. A True Incident.

Is it hospitable or civilized to make a stranger in our city go out into the street to take his drink, after selling it to him?—Anti-Dispensary News.

How about the hospitality of a barkeeper who entices a man to become drunk in his place of business and then kicks the intoxicated customer through the back door of the saloon? This has happened in Greensboro, and more than once, too.

One night during the spring of 1899, a few months before the dispensary was opened, a young man, gifted and of a genial disposition, went into one of the brilliantly lighted and splendidly appointed saloons of this city and took a drink, with the intention of returning to his home immediately. The barkeeper was very gracious und sociable and insisted on treating his customer. After taking the second drink it was an easy matter to persuade the young man to spend a while in the inviting resort.

He remained for an hour or two and continued to drink and spend his money, and the more he drank the more lavishly he spent his money. Finally he became too drunk to further patronize the bar, and it was then that the proprietor discovered that he had no further use for his customer.

The young man was ordered to leave the saloon immediately, but was too drunk to walk out as sprightly as he entered. The barkeeper called a negro porter, and each taking an arm of the unfortunate young man, he was carried to the rear of the saloon and thrown through the back door into the mud and darkness as carelessly and heartlessly as one would have thrown a dead dog into a river.

Which form of "hospitality" or "civilization" is preferable?

For the Philippines.

Peter Cabel, of Elon College; Willie B. R. Klapp, of Greensboro, and Ellison Mitchell, of Iredell county, left today for the Philippine Islands, having enlisted at the recruiting station in this city. John L. Otterbourg, of Greensboro, is another recruit. He will leave tomorrow for Columbus barracks, Ohio.

Recruits are now wanted for the engineering corps.

NEGRO DEARLY SELLS HIS LIFE.

A FEARFUL FIGHT IN NEW ORLEANS

Run to Cover Robert Charles, the Murderer of Officers Day and Lamb, Uses His Winchester Indiscriminately on the Crowd Attempting to Capture Him. Kills Three Persons, One of Them a Mere Boy, and Wounds Many Others—As a Last Resort the House was Fired and the Desperado Forced Out, to Meet Death From a Hundred Bullets.

New Orleans, July 27—After a desperate battle, lasting for several hours in which he succeeded in killing Sergeant Gabriel Porteous, Andy Van-Kurem, keeper of the police jail, and Alfred J. Bloomfield, a young boy; fatally wounding Corporal John F. Lally, John Banville, ex-Policeman Frank H. Evans, A. S. Leclere, a leading confectioner of the city, and more or less seriously shooting several citizens, the negro desperado, Robert Charles, who killed Captain Day and Patrolman Lamb and badly wounded Officer Mora, was smoked out of his hiding place in the heart of the residence section of the city this afternoon and literally shot to pieces.

The tragedy was one of the most remarkable in the history of the city and 20,00 people, soldiers, policemen and citizens were gathered around the square in which Charles was finally put to death. Tremendous excitement reigned in New Orleans, as the battle went on between the police and citizens and the negro with his Winchester. After the tragedy was over and Charles was dragged from the mud and slush in which he had fallen, with the mob howling for the burning of his body, statements were made that the man killed was not really the desperado who had killed Day and Lamb, but papers found on his person and the fact that he fought so desperately for his life and shot so accurately seem to leave little doubt that the right man was put to death.

Sergeant Gabe Porteous, one of the best known officers on the force, and Sergeant John F. Lally, who has a fine record for bravery, were informed during the day by a negro that Charles was in hiding in a house on Clio, near Saratoga street. Determining to take him alive if possible, the officers summoned a number of patrolmen to their assistance and went to the house where Charles was supposed to be in concealment. The negro informer of the policemen accompanied the officers. They entered the alley side of the house and were surprised in practically the same way as were Day and Lamb. Before the officers were aware of their danger, Charles, who was hidden behind a screen on the second floor of the building, raised his Winchester and began a furious but accurate fire. Lally fell with a bullet in the right side of the abdomen. Porteous was shot through the head and dropped dead across the body of Lally. The other officers and the negro fled from the scene. The reports of Charles' Winchester and the fact that two officers lay bleeding in the yard, raised tremendous excitement.

Hurry calls were sent to the mayor, the chief of police and Col. Wood, in command of the special police, and as fast as possible armed help was rushed to the scene. In a little while there was an immense crowd around the square in which Charles was located. In the meantime Father Fitzgerald, of St. John's church, was summoned to administer extreme unction to the police officers who were lying in the alley. The priest responded promptly and he was anointing the body of Porteous with Alfred J. Bloomfield, a young boy, standing by his side, when Charles again fired from the window. The lad saw him at once and begged the desperado not to shoot him Charles immediately fired his Winchester again and Bloomfield fell dead. The priest, unhurt, left the scene after pluckily performing the last offices to the dead officer.

At this time the ambulance arrived and two citizens volunteered to go into the alley way and brirg out the body of Lally. They entered and while they were attempting to take the body of the dead officer from that of his colleague, Charles fired again. The citizeds, nevertheless, got Lally's body out of the alley, and succeded in taking Porteous' body out also. In the meantime an immense throng had gathered in the vicinity and schemes were set on foot to get Charles out of the building. Charles, however, did not propose to be captured without selling his life dearly. Time after time he came to the window and as citizens, one by one, entered the alley, he blazed away at them. In this manner Confectioner Leclere, who was one of the special police squad; ex-Policeman Evans, John Banville and George H. Lyons, son of the head of the biggest drug establishment in the South, were wounded.

At this time the extra police began to fire indiscriminately at the negro Who shot him will propably never be known. Just at this time Andy Van Kurem, keeper of the jail, got a bullet in the body and fell dead. Just afterward H. H. Batt, aged 65, working for the Mutual Benevolent Association, doing business in the vicinity, was hit and mortally wounded. About the same time, with Charles firing his Winchester indiscriminately, Frank Bertucci received a shot in the left shoulder and J. W. Bofil got a hot bullet in the right hand. Ultimately it was concluded by those who were handling the situation that the only way to get Charels was to burn the building in which he was entrenched. There were, however, some scruples about resorting to this method of getting him, owing to the extremely thickly populated section in which the house was situated. Nevertheless it was determined that the fire department should be called out to protect surrounding property in case it should be resolved to burn the building.

At the moment of apparent indecision some one went to a neighboring grocery, purchased a can of oil, and, pouring it over the rear steps of the building applied a match and soon had the building in flames. So fiercely did the fire burn that it became evident that no human being could live in the building and picked men from the police, special squads and members of the militia stationed themselves about the building in order to pick off the desperado as he attempted to leave the house. A young soldier named Adolph Anderson, a member of the Thirteenth Company of the State militia, was one of the first to see Charles as he ran across the yard and entered the second room. He fired several times at Anderson and the latter, who was armed with a Winchester rifle, shot the negro in the breast and he fell and died soon after.

As soon as the negro fell numbers of people, armed with Winchesters and revolvers, rushed in and fired into the body. Charles was literally shot to pieces. After it was certain that he was dead a mob entered the yard and dragged the body into the street. There the police and mob emptied their revolvers into it while a son of one of the murdered men rushed up and stamped the face beyond recognition. There were then loud howls that the body should be taken to a vacant square in the vicinity and publicly burned. At this instant, however, a big squad of police dashed up in a patrol wagon. There were thousands of people congregated in the vicinity and it seemed as if there might be a clash between the officers and the mob. The police seemed, however, to have regained their courage and they promptly pushed the crowd aside, picked up the body and threw it into the patrol wagon. The driver whipped up his horses and the wagon started off with 5,000 people running after it and clamoring for the cremation of the body of the desperado. The wagon, however, was fleeter than the mob, and it ultimately made its way in safety to police headquarters. There an immense crowd had gathered, and great difficulty was experienced in taking the corpse of the negro from the wagon into the morgue. When Charles' body was stripped it was found to have been literally lacerated from head to foot by the bullets of the mob. Shortly after the body had been placed upon the marble slab in the morgue Annie Gant, a negro woman, who was alleged to have known Charles intimately, came to the morgue and, after regarding the body carefully, declared that it was not that of Charles, but of his half brother, Sly Jackson. Later in the evening, however, Joseph Stassi, a responsible Italian, arrived at the prison, and, seeing the body, said positively that it was that of the murderer of Day and Lamb.

FOUGHT THROUGH THE NIGHT.

The New Orleans Rioters Finally Driven Off—A Negro School Burned.

By Wire to the Telegram.

New Orleans, July 28.—All through last night the officers fought the mob that set out to fire the negro houses in the vicinity of Tchopitoulas and Amelia streets. The rioters were finally driven away,

At one time 30 tenements were on fire. The splendid Thomas Lafon School, which accomodated about 800 negro children, was burned to the ground.

Corporal Lally, who was shot by the negro desperado Charles, died early this morning.

SHOT BY NEGROES.

An Attempt Made on the Life of a Prominent Mecklenburg Man.

Special Dispatch to the Telegram.

Charlotte, N. C., July 28.—'Squire J. P. Hunter, of Derita, was shot last night at ten o'clock by a party of negroes passing in a buggy. The news was at once sent to Charlotte and officers went to the scene.

Today Deputy Sheriff Johnson returned from Derita with four negroes in his keeping, and it is understood that four more are implicated. The cause of the shooting is not known.

'Squire Hunter is not considered dangerously wounded.

BUT LITTLE TYPHOID HERE.

Greensboro Physicians Say Reports That Have Gone Out Are Incorrect.

At a meeting of the Greensboro Medical Club last night the reported prevalence of typhoid fever in the city was taken up and discussed. In some way a report has gained currency in certain quarters that there is a great deal of typhoid in Greensboro, but after comparing notes, the physicians find that there are only a very few cases.

There is some malarial and other mild forms of fever here, and this probably caused the reported prevalence of typhoid. As a matter of fact, Greensboro is as free from typhoid fever as any town in the State, many places of a higher altitude often having more cases than exist in this city.

Death of an Infant.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Gales died last night at Montreat, N. C., where it had been carried by the advice of a physician a week ago. Mr. and Mrs. Gales will arrive with the remains tonight.

Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made.

The First Load of 1900 Tobacco.

The first load of tobacco for the present year was sold on the Greensboro market yesterday. The prices were above those of last year. The indications for the present crop are good, and it is believed that the Greensboro market will be more liberally patronized than during any previous year.

Cotton Market.

OUR NUMBER OF SOULS.

The People Are Still Handing in the Guesses With the Usual Wide Divergence of Numbers.

More guesses than usual have come in today, and we have not room enough to print them all. While there are wide divergences, the favorite numbers are in the vicinity of 12,000. Of course the census will show only the population within the incorporate limits, hence that is what the guesses are based upon.

AMENDMENT WILL BRING FREEDOM

During the Campaign Not a Shot Has Been Fired Nor a Person Injured—Butler Playing the Part of a "Shade"—Cy. Thompson's Wail—North Carolina Apples Take Second Prize at Paris—The Oldest Episcopal Clergyman in the State Dead.

Special Correspondence of the Telegram.

Raleigh, July 28—Thus far despite all the heat and passion of the campaign, not a shot has been fired, nor a person injured, and the only thing lost is the bouquet which was given Capt. R. B. Davis at Wilmington by some Populist admirer and which he lost at Warsaw, where he had no admirers. Capt. Davis had what the soldiers term a "rough house." He doesn't want to go east any more. Senator Butler sent Davis, and says in his paper he is too busy to leave Raleigh.

Of couse a great many people have read "A House-Boat on the Styx" and will recall Peter Newell's amusing features of the "shades" as those intangible folk meander about. Senator Butler is now playing the part of a "shade" here He walks the streets as a ghost walks. No one, not even his immediate followers, notices him. In the hotels and everywhere it is the same. He gets no word or second glance unless the look be one from some stranger who is told who he is. It must be fearfully unbarrassing to him.

The game of baseball here yesterday illustrated fully the old adage of "he laughs best who laughs last." Raleigh had Charlotte "dead to rights" it was thought, 4 to 1, when the Charlotte team went in to play the last half of the ninth inning. A Charlotte man made a 4 bagger, while the bases were full and this brought in three men and himself too. A lot of people thinking the show was over had left the grounds. This is the worst kind of a 'hoodoo."

The rainfall Thursday afternoon and evening was about 3¼ inches, yet crops are not hurt.

The city water works company has now here a two-million gallon reservoir. It will add a three-million gallon one. The water is now nearly as muddy as the Richmond water, and there is a big kick about it.

North Carolina wins the second prize for apples at the Paris exposition. The apples sent were picked when too ripe and in the interium. At another exhibit to be made of this year's fruit, the State will try for first prize. The agricultural department, which collected and bought the apples, gets the prize.

Rev. W. S. Pettigrew, the oldest Episcopal clergyman in North Carolina, died at his home at Kittrells yesterday. He was 82 years of age, and was a brother of that noted Confederate officer, Gen. Pettigrew. He was also an uncle of Senator Pettigrew, of South Dakota. Venerable as he was, he preached last Sunday.

The letter of Dr. Cy. Thompson is regarded as a wail. The Dr. is nearly as blue as Chairman Holton. The Fusionists are in the last ditch. They know it. Dr. Cy. tries to throw a "sop" to the people by saying the Fusion Legislature will amend the constitution so no negro can hold office. But the people of North Carolina are not going to take the risk of any more Fusion legislation.

In his speech at Thomasville July 19th, Mr. J. W. Bailey said: "There can be no misunderstanding of the issue before us. The question is a simple one, and there are no complications whatever. It is this: Are you in favor of keeping 80,000 ignorant negro voters in the body politic or not? If you are in favor of this, vote against the amendment; and when you vote do not try to believe that you are voting for anything but the continuation of the troubles that the enfranchisement of the negroes has brought upon us. If you are opposed to having this great body of ignorant and incompetent voters in a position to harrass us and handicap us, then vote for the amendment.

"This is the issue. There is no other. This is the question, and any man who adds to it or takes from it, or tries to confuse your thinking, does so because he desires to conceal the real issue. Be sure that he does not succeed. This is no party question. I would not speak it if it were. It is above party; it concerns vitally all parties. I am interested in it, and I speak now because it personally concerns the welfare and the progress of our great Commonwealth.

"I am in favor of eliminating the negro vote for three reasons. Hear them, and tell me if they are not sufficient:

"First, the negro is incompetent. Voting is self-government, and that is sovereignty, and the negro is not fit for self-government. Very few races are. It required several hundred years of responsibility to make you white men fit. Shall we say that it requires only thirty years to make the negro fit? We do not give the franchise freely in the Hawaiian Islands or in the Philippines or in Cuba, because the people of these islands are not fit. Even the politicians of the North have come to see the wisdom of abrogating the suffrage of the negro since they have had to deal with Hawaii and Cuba.

"Second, the passage of the amendment will give us freedom, a new birth of civil liberty. I tell you you have not been free. I have not been free. If a Populist comes out to stand for principles he soon learns that he must put them aside, and deal with the menace of negro rule. Republicans cannot discuss the real issues of their great party in North Carolina. Their whole time is taken up with the question of the negro. Prohibitionists have had to do likewise, and the Democratic party has also had to abandon its real issues and make its fight on the negro. The ignorant negro vote has thus been a great stumbling block. We have no freedom of thought. We have no aggressive politics. We have no part in the thought of our nation, or the politics of the world. We stand still in a degenerate political system while our sister States go forward. This is injurious to the State and the citizen. It belittles our power, narrows our minds and degrades our public service. We have come now to make way for freedom of thought and action. When I vote for the amendment I strike a blow for true liberty, the liberty of thought and action, the liberty to serve my State and Nation. I put an unprofitable and degrading question behind, and go forward into great and noble ones.

"Third, I favor the amendment because its passage will help the negro who needs help. It will put the negro politican out of a job; but the negro man and woman it will help. It will put their friends in a position to help them; it will put them where they may be helped without harm. Our people have begun to oppose the missions to the negro and education for the negro since his political leaders have risen to public prominence. Let them be retired. Let the colored people be removed from their menacing political attitude, and Christian men and women everywhere will come back to teaching them, and helping them, and protecting them.

"These are my three reasons.

"The only reasons offered against the amendment are:

1. "That it is unconstitutional. You cannot decide this. No one is expected to hire the Supreme Court. If the men who say it is unconstitutional believed it themselves they would not canvass the State against the amendment, since if it is unconstitutional it can do them no harm. If voters decided the constitutionality of measures, we would have little need for Supreme Courts.

2. "That it will disfranchise white men. I have studied the amendment closely. I tell you it has two purposes, one is to disfranchise all ignorant negroes, the other is to do this without endangering the vote of any white man, and I believe that the only native white men who can be disfranchised by it are those who have committed crimes. You ask, how about the twelve years old boy who will not be protected by the grandfather clause? I answer, he has eight years to learn how to read and write in. I answer, he has ten thousand friends who are building a great school system around him. I answer that he will have to make a determined effort not to qualify himself in order to succeed. And in this I find an inspiring argument for the amendment, since it will give new impetus and importance to our popular education now being waged in our State.

"Finally, I repeat, the issue is this: Are you for or against keeping 80,000 or more ignorant negro voters in the body politic? Before this question you must vote, and upon your votes Aug. 2nd the future of your State and your children will depend."

The Pangs Of Dyspepsia

We all have experienced those distressing symptoms of dyspepsia which make life such a burden. The heavy cutting pain soon after eating, the burning sensation in the stomach, heartburn and oppression of breathing. These are the most common symptoms. Few disorders inflict upon their victims greater suffering and longer misery.

Abbey's Effervescent Salt

is the natural specific for all these conditions. It immediately relieves the acidity of the stomach, stops the fermentation, and stimulates the secretion and muscular action of the stomach and bowels. By its use the normal action of the organs of digestion is re-established.

Abbey's Salt is made from the salts extracted from the juices of fresh fruits. It cures Constipation, Biliousness and all complaints caused by a disordered condition of the stomach and bowels.

THOMAS C. WHITE, M.D., Beauford, S. C., says: "I am much pleased with my experience with Abbey's Effervescent Salt. I have used it in Dyspepsia accompanied with Acidity of Stomach and Flatulency. It is a most agreeable laxative."

NO DANGER OF REDUCTION.

In a long editorial on the importance of electing a Democratic House, the Norfolk Landmark says that there "is a carefully-formulated plan to cut down Southern representation in Congress in case the Republicans have a working majority in the lower house next time," they already being safe in the Senate. This is one of the arguments urged against the constitutional amendment, but North Carolina might well feel happy to swap her entire congressional representation in exchange for immunity from negro-scallawag rule. However, they will not be called upon to swap all or any. Population was fixed by the Constitution as the basis for representation, and this has never been changed, despite the fact that the fourteenth amendment has placed in a partisan majority the power to nullify it. On the suggestion that representation in the South should be changed from a basis of population to a basis of the vote actually cast, the Washington Post remarks:

That would be directly and grossly violative of the Constitution. That instrument provides that the population of the several States must be the basis of the apportionment of Representatives and Presidential electors, and neither of the new amendments changes that fundamental fact. But the fourteenth amendment provides that the representation—still based on the census returns—may be reduced when the right to vote is denied any citizen over twenty-one years of age, "except for participation in rebellion or other crime."

Setting a special qualification for voters is not denying any man the right to vote, and one by one the States of the American Union are passing suffrage laws that set safeguards about the ballot box, without any fear of losing any representatives in Congress. Massachusetts has such restrictions, so does Mississippi, the latter's lately declared constitutional. Requiring a man to read before he votes is not excluding him. Any man can learn to read. Whatever the passage of our amendment may do, it cannot result in a constitutional reduction of our representation, for it has not done so elsewhere. That a partisan congress might attempt it, we might well believe, except for the fact that there are now already too many States either in that position or preparing to get in it. But, it will be objected that the North Carolina amendment does not apply to all alike. The fact that it applies to half instead of all, or that half a population instead of all was required to read and write before voting, could not make it unconstitutional without accepting the absurd position that it was unconstitutional because it did not exclude enough persons. If the amendment is attacked it must be attacked from some other point.

LITERARY NOTES.

Mr. James Lane Allen, who writes in a cinchy way about Kentucky characters, and who is the author of "The Choir Invisible," is out in another book from the blue grass regions. It is "The Reign of Law; a Tale of the Kentucky Hemp Fields." This book cannot be described as brilliant. As a work of fiction it is passable, because it is interesting, not because it is artistic or romantic. As a repository of wisdom-chuncks it is good. Mr. Lane affects a style. The style is not good. He takes two great liberties, even for a novelist, in the learned way he makes his chief character, David, a gawky country boy, talk. Mr. Lane has no doubt read with appreciation the history of "Rev. Theron Ware," and nobody can say that he has not rememberingly perused the several twin-like fictions of the Rev. E. P. Roe, who utilizes sweethearts as missionaries to their own true loves who happen to be in theological error. David was a gawky country lad, son of a whining father, and great grandson of a stalwart Indian fighter, who on a frivolous charge of unorthodoxy, being expelled from the church which he and the other pioneers had set up, on his own land erected a church house in perpetuity to forever be a meeting place for whosoever wished to serve God without regard to doctrine. The young man was fired by a speech to go to a Bible college at the University, to study for the ministry. In all sincerity and honesty of purpose he became an evolutionist and discarded the orthodox view of Christianity, being lead first to this train of thought by the intense doctrinalism of the sermons he heard. Then his struggle, the disappointment of his parents, his meeting with his angel, Gabriella, take up the remainder of the book. It is quite interesting, altogether. For sale by Wharton Bros.

We learn that Mr. Ernest Seton-Thompson, the author of "Wild Animals I Have Known," will come South on a lecturing tour this winter. This author who writes so charmingly and in such an entirely original way of animals, will receive a hearty welcome in the South. We only hope that Greensboro may be included in his itineracy.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson says that he has no ambiition to serve in the United States Senate. He told the Cedar Rapids Republican this little pastoral yarn:

I love the work of the Agricultural Department. It is the only thing that can keep me in Washington for any length of time. I would not care to stay there for work that would be less congenial. The best place in the world that I know of is my Tama County farm. I have several hundred acres of woodland pasture, and I am going there to wander through the timber and look at the herds. That is where my real life lies.

Wickedness unadultered, that thus holds Mr. Wilson in office and deprives him of the pleasure of wandering through his woodland pasture. Noble patriot, that thus denies himself the pleasures of his farm for the public good.

The Fusion party in Guilford county knew not what ticket they would be called upon to vote before the patch work of the bosses was published in yesterday's Telegram. Verily it is a fact of human nature that we are all blind to our faults. The principal complaint of the Populist party was one time that other parties were boss ridden, and yet they cheerfully went along following their own bosses in the vain belief that they were free, although there has never been a day in the history of the Populist or Republican parties in North Carolina when the rank and file had any voice whatever in saying what should or should not be done.

SCATTERED NOTES.

All of us have heard of the gay huntsman's horn, some have heard of the old time stage bugle, and even others yet have heard of the thresher's horn as it warns the good farm wife to have supper ready for the approaching gang of hands who will tomorrow thresh out the season's crop of wheat —but all Greensboro people have not only heard of, but have actually heard the ice man's horn. This is a luxury enjoyed exclusively by Greensboro people, and it is especially enjoyale to late sleepers. It is such a relief from nightmares.

The interest of the people in the coming election on the amendment is remarkable. A gentleman who was in Reidsville a few days ago said that the house of a traveling man who lived in that town had written him to come home from Alabama on the house's expense for the purpose of voting for the amendment.

* * * *

Last night, late, a gentleman went in the postoffice and was saluted by a little coon with the request for a nickel to buy some supper with, when the following conversatiou insued:

"Why don't yo go home and get something to eat?"

"Cain't git da', I libs in Danville."

"What are you doing here?"

"Er white man fetched he har an' lef me."

The gentleman told him to follow and he would carry him to a place where he could get something. He went to police headquarters, which were closed up. Stepping inside the hall to tap on the door, he lost sight of the little coon, but on coming out saw him skedaddling around the corner. He had been dropped in town long enough to know what police headquarters were.

"Talk about watchddogs!" said a man who lives in the suburbs, "dogs are not in it with guinea fowls. I ought to know, for I have a flock of them at my country place. All day they wander about, but at sunset they go to roost in a pine tree at one side of the house. There is no danger from burglars with these birds around. They sleep up in that tree summer and winter, and they sleep with one eye open. They hear every little sound all over the place. The family can talk and laugh and walk about in the evening without disturbing their peace of mind in the least, but a stranger they detect at once, if it's only a stray cat or dog. We've had people walk quietly over the lawn just to test the birds, and they never once failed to raise an alarm. They use judgment, too. When we're all about they content themselves with a subdued cackle, enough to attract our attention; but later, after things have settled down for the night a noise makes them break out in shrill cries, sufficient to wake the dead. It's rather annoying at times, when one gets home from the city late, and doesn't care to have the whole family aroused by his arrival, for instance. But consides the comfort with which one can go to sleep at nights! Give me guinea fowls for watchdogs every time."

Significance of the Red Shirt.

Newport News Herald,

"The red shirt campaign now on in North Carolina revives ancient memories and reminds the Savannah News of the campaign of 1876, in Georgia and South Carolina. As in those days, the Democrats are in red shirts, which never fail to stimulate the enthusiasm. The red shirt as a Southern Democratic campaign emblem, came into being as a protest against the Republican party's waving of the bloody shirt, a defiance of that party at the polls, and a red badge of courage to warn the Republicans that the South would not longer submit to negro domination. The bloody shirt had its origin in the Ku-Klux days, and it is supposed to have been worn by negroes shot by the Ku-Klux Klan. It was the custom of Republican campaign speakers, both North and South, to figuratively draw out and wave the bloody shirt before their audiences for the purpose of keeping sectional feeling high and inflaming the negroes against the white people of the South. The first Democratic red shirts, indeed, were made of white cotton and splashed with red paint or dye, in imitation of the bloody shirt. Later, however, the solid red took the place of the red-splashed white cotton. The red shirt, however, has not been seen of late years. Its revival in North Carolina means no negro domination, presumably, as it did years ago."

CHARLOTTE'S POPULATION, 30,116.

This, of Course, Includes all Mill Suburbs. Red Shirts, White Duck Trousers and Black Leggins for the Big Parade.

Correspondence of the Telegram.

Charlotte, July 28. — The selection of a supervising architect tect for the Charleston (S. C.) Exposition lies at present between two well known architects, one from Charlotte and the other from South Carolina. The selection to this position will be one of the biggest architectural undertakings of recent years in the South, rivalling even the construction of the Atlanta Exposition buildings. The Charleston buildings will cost probably $800,000.

The Mallonee Directory Co., of Atlanta, which recently took Charlotte's census, gives the city 30,116 population. This, of course, includes the mill suburbs and residence sections of the city.

The Charlotte baseball team is again in a tight place financially. There is enough money to run the team one week longer and then all is blank, unless indeed some way is made out of the difficulty, which the supporters of the team will most likely see to.

The committee getting up the parade in connection with the big Democratic rally on the 31st have selected costumes for the marshals and others as follows: Red shirts, white duck trousers and black leggins. These colors are both appropriate and patriotic. General Ransom will be the first speaker of the occasion and will be introduced by Col. H. C. Jones.

To Adopt Practical Measures.

Greensboro Presbyterian.

In pursuing our studies relative to "The "Creed of Presbyterians" we unexpectedly came across an action taken by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church nearly one hundred years ago in regard to liquor saloons, which is of special interest at this time. The Assembly adopted a paper recommending its ministers not only "to preach as often as expedient on the sins and mischiefs of intemperate drinking," but also "to adopt practical measures for reducing the number of places at which liquors are sold."

The notion that a minister may champion moral reforms on no day but Sunday and in no place but his pulpit, that sermons are his sole business and that "practical measures" are beyond his sphere, is a notion without warrant in reason, in Presbyterian history, or in the Word of God.

"I have advised nothing of the kind, except I may have expressed doubts as to the wisdom of a third ticket.

BAD BLOOD, BAD COMPLEXION.

The skin is the seat of an almost endless variety of diseases. They are known by various names, but are all due to the same cause, acid and other poisons in the blood that irritate and interfere with the proper action of the skin.

To have a smooth, soft skin, free from all eruptions, the blood must be kept pure and healthy. The many preparations of arsenic and potash and the large number of face powders and lotions generally used in this class of diseases cover up for a short time, but cannot remove permanently the ugly blotches and the red, disfiguring pimples.

Eternal vigilance is the price of a beautiful complexion when such remedies are relied on.

Mr. H. T. Shobe, 2704 Lucas Avenue, St. Louis, Mo., says: "My daughter was afflicted for years with a disfiguring eruption on her face, which resisted all treatment. She was taken to two celebrated health springs, but received no benefit. Many medicines were prescribed, but without result, until we decided to try S. S. S., and by the time the first bottle was finished the eruption began to disappear. A dozen bottles cured her completely and left her skin perfectly smooth. She is now seventeen years old, and not a sign of the embarrassing disease has ever returned."

S. S. S. is a positive, unfailing cure for the worst forms of skin troubles. It is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and the only one guaranteed purely vegetable.

Bad blood makes bad complexions.

SSS purifies and invigorates the old and makes new, rich blood that nourishes the body and keeps the skin active and healthy and in proper condition to perform its part towards carrying off the impurities from the body.

HIS ESCAPE FROM PRISON.

The Story of a Professional Burglar and Thief.

VERY REMARKABLE FEAT.

The Only Man Who Ever Broke Out of a Well Known English Prison—How He Was Recaptured—An Ex-Convict's Experience.

William Bartlett, an English ex-convict, and the only man who ever affected his escape from Portland prison in England, tells this romantic story of his escape from Portland prison to a reporter. "The correct details of my escape have never been told," he said. "I'll tell you what actually happened. In 1868 I received a sentence of ten years' penal servitude. From Pentonville I was taken to Portland. It was awful. I made up my mind to escape—a feat never before accomplished. One day I managed to pick up a small piece of hoop iron. That seemed like a godsend. Every time I had the chance I took that iron hooping with me, and worked like a nigger to make it into a saw. I did it in fear and trembling, for the slightest sound would have betrayed me. A stroke of luck awaited me. I found a convict who had got a little bit of a file. He had no ambition, and said the file was no good to him. I gave him my dinner for it, and with the file I was able to complete the saw. Then I managed, by working stealthily every evening, after I had been locked up for the night, to saw through the wood flooring of my cell. Every night I had to replace the boards, so that the warders should not see what I had done. Then an awful disappointment awaited me. The space beneath my cell was lined with sheet iron; but, nothing daunted, I eventually got through that. Then I got into an air shaft, and after three months' hard work saw my way clear to liberty.

"At last the opportunity came. It was a dark night and all was still. With my sheets I had made a rope, and, as luck would have it, I had picked up a piece of wood, called a 'dog,' with iron hooks at each end. I put my stool underneath the quilt, to look as much like my body as possible in case the warders should look in, and then went down the passage it had taken me three months' hard labor to make. After lifting an iron grating I found myself in the open air, and managed to throw the hooks on my linen ladder over a wall. By this means I got onto the roof of the officers' quarters. There was no one about, and the only sound I could hear was that made by my beating heart. From the roof I had to jump onto the boundary wall, about ten or twelve feet distant. I dare say it was a bold leap, but you don't stick at trifles when you are escaping from Portland. I made the leap, and was successful in reching the boundary wall. Then I got to the ground by means of my linen ladder.

"Unfortunately, the hooks were so secure that I had to leave the ladder where it was, and if it had not been for that I might have been in London in three or four days. As it was I had an awful experience. While making a desperate tug at the ladder I heard footsteps approaching, and I rushed into the garen of the Grove public house. I turned round and saw a guard looking at the ladder. A few minutes afterward shots were fired and a bell was rung. My escape had been discovered. Guards were running by in all directions; but unperceived I got through the window of the Roman Catholic chapel and concealed myself beneath the communion table, which proved to be something very much like a box. I could hear the sound of hurrying footsteps all night, but no one came into the chapel until the next morning, when service was held there.

It was not a pleasant position to be in, I can ssure you. A sneeze or a cough would have betrayed me, but, fortunately, all went well. But I got very hungry. So at the end of about thirty-three hours I stole out and broke into the Clifton Hotel. I there found some bread and meat, cheese and tobacco. What was of more consequence, I was able to steal a hat and some clothes. With the clothing and the food—the sweetest food I ever tasted—I returned to my hiding place in the chapel. Out of a black coat I made a pair of trousers, and put on another of the stolen coats, which happened to be made of velvet. The food I divided into six portions, and for six days I was concealed beneath that communion table. There were frequent services, and, what was still worse, the priest used to come in at night for private devotions.

"At last I had more than enough of it, and broke into the priest's house with the object of obtaining some money. I could find none, however. There was some silver plate, but that was of no use to me. I obtained a white stole, however, and with that made something resembling a shirt. Feeling now fairly confident as to my appearance, I walked down the road, and saw a milkman, who I afterward found gave information about me. At Portland I concealed myself in a field. Two men came in blackberrying, and I had to get out. They asked me where I was going. I said to Blandford. They volunteered to show me the wey, but we had not gone very far before we met two police in spectors. They asked me to go into a pubic house and give an account of myself.

Tell the Cook.

To add a teaspoonful of sugar to every pint of milk when the milk is to be thickened with cornmeal.

That oatmeal is much improved if sugar is put in while it is cooking instead of being put on it at the table.

To keep a brick on the back of the stove and set the food on it that is to be kept warm.

If there are no potatoes to use for making bread, to take a pan of clabbered milk, heat it boiling hot and strain the whey into the flour, and then proceed to mix the dough in the usual manner.

That the best way to keep boiled mush from being lumpy is to stir up the meal with enough cold water to merely wet it, and then stir it into the kettle of boiling water.

Never to cut potatoes for baking; but for steaming or boiling to draw the edge of a sharp knife half-way around lengthwise, so that they will crack open nicely.

To tie a piece of stale bread in a white muslin cloth and drop it into the kettle with the boiling cabbage, to help absorb the offensive odor.

To make graham bread the same as white bread, and then steam it three hours, instead of baking it one.

That when baking powder is used for biscuits the shortening should be stirred in after all the ingredients are added, including the flour, and they will be much lighter and more flaky.

To cut the thin skin from the outside of a leg of mutton, or the mutton chops before cooking them, in order to remove the "wooly taste" that some find so objectionable.

Young Women Learn Carpentering.

"Tradition says that woman cannot sharpen lead pencils," said President Jesse of the Missouri State University, recently. "Four women at our school are overturning that pleasant bit of fiction by becoming first-class carpenters.

"You know we anticipated the recommendations of the Teachers' Association at Milwaukee regarding shop work and horticulture for the common schools. When the report was made the Missouri State University had already introduced those things in the summer course for teachers of public schools. Four of the women teachers are now doing shop work at Columbia."

"How do they succeed?" was asked.

"Very well, indeed," he answered, enthusiastically. They do not lift any heavy timbers, but the things they do are the same as those required in actual work, only on smaller pieces of wood. I was in the shop the other day and one of the young women gave me a skillful exhibition with the plane. I think the tendency of the times is to introduce shop work into the public schools, and these young women will be prepared to teach it."

Youth and Love.

Youth and Love fell out one day.
Said Youth to Love: "I'll go away,
And leave you broken-hearted.
I'll go through life without your aid;
I'll neither gaze on man or maid."
And foolishly they parted.

Off went haughty Youth alone;
He hummed a tune in merry tone,
And never looked behind him;
While Love, at home, was sad and sore,
And longed for merry Youth once more.
Alas! she could not find him!

But Youth had not been walking long
Before he hushed his merry song—
His heart was full of sorrow.
He found it hard to stray away
From Love, of only for a day—
He came back on the morrow.

For Love and Youth apart would die,
Like flowers without dew or sky—
They'd fade if they would sever!
As long as there is tide and time,
In every land, in every clime,
Youth and Love will be together.
—Household Guest.

Her Chafing Dish.

When Fanchon to her chafing dish
Repairs and lights the alcohol,
We look for miracles and wish
That fate may let us share them all.
Though not too gluttony inclined,
We laugh with gastronomic glee,
And each lays plans with secret mind
To each tid-bit enough for three.

For Fanchon is a cook supreme
Of dainties which the dish may hold;
A gracious goddess of the steam
Whose bounties please us more than gold,
Her finnan-haddies and croquets
Are poems of deliciousness;
Her oysters and her omelets
Achieve the climax of success.

And yet I wonder, can it be
That Fanchon's skill is so unique?
I know what savor all for me
Are her bright eyes and glowing cheek.
Well, Fanchon, cater to the men
And to the maids whom men desire,
But don't get scorched, young lady, when
You're playing with the dainty fire.

We have it! Good! Now let's talk about glasses. It's a subject of interest to you—all eyes need them sometime. Many need them long before they get them. We know it's hard to come tospectacles. but there's comfort in the right sort; to be sure there could be no right sort if we really didn't need them. Anyhow come in and talk it over, we'll be frank with you. If your trouble is only momentary eye-tire or your eyes are down because your health is below par, we'll tell you so.

PECULIAR ANIMAL COMBAT

Fierce Battle Between a Big Sea Lion and Land Lion

CALIFORNIA'S SENSATION

The Strange Story That Comes From the Pacific Coast—California Mountain Lion in Search of Food—A Battle in the Water.

A deadly combat between a monster sea lion and two large California lions, or panthers, was witnessed by two men of Tomales, Cal., the other day.

It was an extraordinarily grotesque yet truly terrible conflict. The proverbial battle between an elephant and a whale, which it is hardly expected will ever take place, could not be more remarkable.

At the mouth of Tomales Bay there is a small island called Hog Island. The only person who lives on it is Lewis Johnson, who keeps a chicken farm. On a reef running out into the sea there is a rookery of sea lions. The great beasts gambol on the rocks and in the water and enjoy the sunshine all day long. They beat the water into foam and fill the air with their cheerful bellowing.

Samuel Short, of Tomales, visited Hog Island to buy chickens, and while he was engaged in a business discussion with Lewis Johnson their attention was diverted by a commotion in the sea lion rookery, not 200 yards away. The great seals were making a tremendous howling and bellowing, and to the practised ear of Johnson it was evident that the noise did not, as usual indicate mirth and contentment.

Short thus describes the extraordinary scene that he and his companion then witnessed:

"We looked at the bellowing sea lions and could not understand their excitement. Then we looked at the water and understood.

"Just sticking out of the sea were two enormous cat-like heads glistening with water. They were moving onward toward the rock and the rookery at a great rate.

"Presently the heads reached the rock, and instantly two magnificent mountain lions leaped out of the water. These beasts take to the water very frequently on this coast, and they swim only a little less easily than the seals.

"These two lions might have been making a short cut across the mouth of the bay when they took to the water, or they might have started out with the express purpose of making a dinner of young sea lions. At any rate, this was the object they had in view when they landed on the rock. The young sea lion being tender, and having an immense covering of fat, furnishes a dainty morsel for the robust appetite of the catamount.

"When the panthers landed all the sea lions leaped off into the water except one great big old fellow. He stood up alone to face his deadly enemies. He was doubtless the father of a great family, probably a grandfather and a great-grandfather, too. The fat and fur hung in enormous rolls about his neck, and his whiskers were stupendous.

(The fierce struggle.)

"The two panthers leaped upon the old sea lion, and there was a whirlwind of howls, blood, flying fur and swiftly moving paws, armed with steel-like claws. Then the panthers drew off for a moment. They found that the sea lion could bite very hard and their sides were covered with blood.

"The marauders then stood off a little and rained long-distance blows with lightning speed on the sea lion's head and shoulders. The unfortunate sea monster could do nothing, not being able to reach his antagonists, but it was slow work to produce any effect on him, for his tremendously thick fur and fat stopped the blows. He waddled around on his flippers and tail, bellowing defiance at his enemies and trying vainly to get at them.

"One of the panthers closed with the sea lion again, and this time the latter tried to drag his enemy over the rock into the water with the intention of drowning him. The two cats bit and tore him so furiously he could not accomplish his purpose.

"For a time the combatants sparred for an opening. uddenly one of the panthers was seized with a devilish idea, for he closed in with the sea lion and bit off his right flipper. The aquatic champion fell to the ground helpless and bleeding to death. The panthers were victorious, and were already licking their chops, as a preliminary to devouring their victim."

THE POET'S CORNER.

My Creed.

I have no faith; but this one fact I find,
That love is growing lovelier every day;
What we call sin is what it leaves behind;
What we call good attracts it on its way.

I have no hope; with God's love in my heart,
What is a selfish loss to care about?
If in the world I've played my little part,
Let him who lit the candle put it out.

I have no creed but love; is there a hell?
Where some poor tortured thing cries out in pain?
Then let me take his hand, and wish him well,
And wait, until he finds his heaven again.

ROSSETER WYE.

Secrets.

Blonde Charlotte's face is aquiline.
And Bess has features retrousse;
One has a smile like summershine,
Through which wee dimples peep and play.
Her eyes are gems so rare and pure
They put to blush the Kohinoor;
Withal, she's such a winsome witch,
It—well, no matter who or which.

When Charlotte dons her gown of gray
And Bess her jaunty suit of blue,
The two are fairer than the day
When June is ripened through and through.
And one is sweeter than the blooms
That pout without her curtained rooms;
They pout, no doubt, because their lot,
Keeps them so far from—tell I'll not!

Dear Lot and Bess are young and gay
And keep my 'wildered wits awhirl;
I know not how to break away
From one and court the other girl.
For each has charms hard to resist.
And each seems fashioned to be kissed.
At least, 'twere rapture to caress
That rare coquette—"Which?" You must guess.

The application of electrozone for disinfecting purposes is being tried at Havana since its occupation by the United States government. A plant similar to that which was used in New York harbor for the disinfection of garbage has been installed, and the electrozone, which is electrolyzed sea water, is used for disinfecting the streets, the sewerage and the harbor. The cost of disinfecting is said to be about 50 cents per thousand gallons.

COLD STEEL OR DEATH.

"There is but one small chance to save your life and that is through an operation," was the awful prospect set before Mrs. I. B. Hunt, of Lime Ridge, Wis., by her doctor after vainly trying to cure her of a frightful case of stomach trouble and yellow jauntice. He didn't count on the marvellous power of Electric Bitters to cure stomach and liver troubles, but she heard of it, took seven bottles, was wholly cured, avoided surgeon's knife, now weighs more and feels better than ever. It's positively guaranteed to cure stomach, liver and kidney troubles and never disappoints. Price 50c at C. E. Holton's drug store.

AROUND TOWN.

Occurrences of More or Less Importance Briefly Related.

Mr. J. E. McKnight lost a good horse by colic yesterday.

A large number of country people were in town today, to the delight of the merchants.

The sidewalks on West Gaston street are reported in a bad condition, due to the hard rains.

Every mail brings applications for admission to the State Normal and Industrial College next term.

Mr. J. W. Forbis spoke to a good crowd at Pomona last night. His speech highly pleased all who heard it.

Prof. J. R. Wharton, county superintendent of schools, conducted a teachers' examination in the court house today.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Irelard entertained a party of friends at a reception last night in honor of Miss Alice Jones, of Raleigh, and Misses Lucy and Julia Glenn and Miss French.

A joint debate between the county candidates has never been heard in Greensboro, but the Republican candidates have promised to be on hand at the court house Monday night. A lively time may be expected.

Mr. Wharton Replies to the Record.

To the Editor of the Record:

You announced some time ago that you would take no further hand in the dispensary agitation, and it is noteworthy that you maintained a dignified silence when the Anti-Dispensary News appeared charging the gentlemen who compose the dispensary board with making a false report for the purpose of deceiving the people, and charging these same gentlemen with other high crimes and misdemeanors. You also managed to contain yourself and said nothing when Mr. Shields published his communication in which the good women of Greensboro and the ministers of our churches were insulted in the grossest and most wanton manner; but when a circular appeared stating a few simple facts about Mr. Moses H. Cone, which no one can, will, or has denied, your indignation was so great that you could not hold your peace any longer. Now there was not a word in the Cone circular that was abusive, and yet you have characterized it as an outrage. You have denounced as a "bare-faced falsehood" the statement that Mr. Cone called off the court house meeting, when no such statement was made. The circular merely stated that Mr. Cone "failed to attend the meeting which had been called at his instance." If he was there nobody saw or heard him, and if he had been there he would have been both seen and heard. There seems to be some confusion about the calling off of that meeting. You stated that you called it off, whereas, Mr. R R. King, in his speech in the court house that night, claimed that he and others had done it in the interest of harmony.

Now as to Mr. Cone's being out of this fight over the dispensary, no man of sound mind can be found in Greensboro who will swallow that. Mr. Cone has in times past gloried in the fact that he was "a fighter," and everybody knows he was in the thick of the conflict in the beginning, when he had his meeting of business men called for the purpose of denouncing the dispensary, and his sudden retirement, if such is really the case, can be accounted for only upon one assumption, that he has been whipped and has thrown up the sponge In that event the circular has done Mr. Cone an injustice.

I desire to state in conclusion that I had no hand in the preparation of the Cone circular. J. R. WHARTON.

[The above communication is published in the Telegram only after having been offered to the Record, and declined, at least for today. J. R. W.]

Protests Against the Underhanded Methods of Republicans.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

I notice that the Republicans have put me on their ticket for magisistrate. I protest against this underhanded way of doing business and announce to them that I am a Democrat and will not allow them to use my name.
